Christiana Sylvaine CMASAS Class of 2017

Since graduating, Christiana's journey has been quite a ride—spanning various countries, diving into different job scenes, adopting a dog, and proudly earning her Bachelor's degree. At CMASAS, she valued the flexibility that set the stage for lasting friendships, networking opportunities, and meaningful connections that continue to shape her life.

What drew Christiana to CMASAS was its unique approach, letting her explore courses aligned with her passions, molding her interests during college. Little did she know, this experience not only prepared her for encounters with diverse backgrounds but also bolstered her resilience for a post-COVID-19 world embracing online learning.

Early graduation from CMASAS was a game-changer for Christiana and her peers. It gave them a head start on valuable life experiences, arming them with the tools to navigate life's complexities sooner than their counterparts.

The lasting friendships at CMASAS, some turning into daily connections, show how impactful this unique educational environment is.

Her closest friend, a fellow CMASAS graduate, shares an unbreakable bond that continues to thrive after academia.

Looking back, she sees CMASAS as a nurturing foundation that laid essential blocks for her rapid personal growth. The tailored approach not only let her explore academic interests but also kept her on par with traditional high school students in core curriculum. CMASAS's flexibility played a key role in shaping her social connections, providing a more gradual pace for making friends compared to the overwhelming first day of a traditional school semester.

Encouraging other families to consider CMASAS for their child's education, Christiana highlighted the benefits: improved academic retention, a diverse social circle, and an opportunity for deep self-exploration. Drawing from her own experience, she assured parents that choosing CMASAS would offer their child an enriching and uniquely tailored educational journey they wouldn't regret.
